

MODERN ESCULAPIUS.

Doctors of the Period - A Period Catalogue of the Profession.

Quick, go for the doctor! All right, I'm going for him. I have been itching to go for the doctor for a long time; so here goes.

There are a great many kinds of doctors - big doctors and small doctors, old school doctors, doctors of the new school, and doctors without any schooling whatsoever. There are doctors of law, and doctors of son-in-laws; ear doctors, and doctors difficult to get the ear of; tooth doctors, nail doctors, and doctors who go at you tooth and nail; eye doctors, and I. O. U. doctors; eclectic doctors, electric doctors, and doctors not of the elect, who go it on tick.

Thus we have cold-water doctors, and doctors who "straw" it a good deal; root doctors, and doctors whose motto is "Root, hog or die!"

Spiritual doctors, and doctors very much out of spirits; magnetic doctors, and doctors who haven't any magnetism in them - or much else; laying-on-of-hands doctors, and doctors who lay on anything they can lay their hands on, except, perhaps, their own physic.

Sweet doctors are numerous. If they don't sweat their patients, their patients sometimes make them sweat. And there are few doctors who are not compelled to sweat around a good deal to get their pay.

Among the Indian doctors are the full-breed, half-breed, corn-bred, and doctors never bred at all - at least not bred to medicine - the latter class being for the most numerous. As a general thing, Indian doctors, as they call themselves, know nothing whatever about Indians; many of them never saw one. But that is nothing strange in medicine. Men have practiced medicine all their lives without enjoying the slightest acquaintance with it.

Herb doctors are popularly supposed to spend a large portion of their time in wandering through the fields cutting herbs. Nothing of the sort. Lots of these wouldn't know catnip from "pen-nyrile" if they saw them growing.

They are lung doctors, and doctors with very little lungs, although tolerable good liveries. Doctors are good liveries as a general thing.

The throat doctor appears in a variety of forms not strictly recognized in medicine. The hangman is the most thorough throat doctor we have. His remedy - a stricture of hemp - rarely fails to cure the most obstinate throat difficulty. Few persons have ever been heard to complain of a sore throat after his application.

Barkeepers are another variety of throat doctors, whose mixtures, also, are too familiar to many people. Cold water is the safest thing for the throat as an inward application.

Pepper doctors were quite familiar some years ago. They don't appear as much as they did, though many doctors are peppery enough.

Mustard doctors are in the army for the most part, unless they are mustered out.

Cancer doctors are almost as numerous as cancerous themselves. Every cancer doctor exhibits so many cancers he has taken out, that I have stood and wondered if they didn't take it out in cancer. I was once shown a cancer so large that I asked the doctor, if the space was valuable, why he didn't stick his patient away in a glass jar and let the tumor walk around?

Movement doctors are trying hard to get up a movement, but bless you, the old-fashioned pill doctors are years ahead of them. They are the original movement doctors.

Corn doctors should not be overlooked. Some of them are very skillful in taking off a corn. A corn doctor took a corn off for me once, and he took it off so far it was nearly a week before it came back again.

No man who hasn't horse sense has any business trying to be a horse doctor, although he may get a diploma to doctor men. Even the constitution of a horse may be broken down by unskilled treatment, yet in selecting a physician for ourselves we forget that. The horse doctor sometimes gets more kicks than he gives, though he is one of the few privileged persons who are excused for looking a gift horse in the mouth.

The healthiest town I ever knew was out in Illinois, one summer, when the doctors went East to attend a medical convention, neglecting to return for several months. The doctors found, when they did get back, that their patients had recovered, the drug stores had burst, nurses had opened dancing schools, the country was cut up into building lots, the undertakers had gone to making fiddles, and the village houses had been gaily painted and sold for a circus wagon.

Although I have metaphorically gone for the doctors, let nothing I have said be construed as reflecting upon them as a class. They are good natured, and can, therefore, take a joke; and, for the most part, are charitable and humane. I have a good many friends among the doctors, yet they are the very last men I want to call on.

It may not be generally known, says the Charlotte (N. C.) Democrat, that a sister (Hannah) of the great Daniel Boone, the pioneer of Kentucky, is living in Caldwell county, N. C. She has remarkably good health, is now 85 years old, and bids fair to reach a hundred.

A young lady being asked her opinion of mountaineers, replied, "I always set my face against them."

H. WILSON KEE COLBATHIL.

Some Elegant Extracts from the Radical Non-Resistant's Know-Nothing Speeches.

From the Bond for Law Journal.

It is an insult to the intelligent, naturalized citizen of this country to suppose that he will, under any circumstances, cast his ballot for Henry Wilson, the man who boasted that he was the father of the Know-Nothing party in Massachusetts; who declared time and again before the people of that commonwealth that "the time had come when the uniform of the militia should no longer be disgraced by being worn on the back of a Catholic Irishman or an infidel Dutchman," who drafted and advocated the passage by the legislature of the law prohibiting any foreigner from holding a commission in the militia of Massachusetts; for the man who declared in a speech in Worcester in the fall of 1854 - while referring to the monstrous enormities perpetrated by the Know-Nothing of St. Louis and Louisville during the riots of that summer - that "by the light of these burning shanties the Teuton and Celt may find the certain doom that will overtake them in the attempt to compete with native-born American for political supremacy in this continent."

Josh Billings Insures His Life. I knew the conclusion lately that life was so uncertain that the only way for me to stand a fair chance with other folks was to get my life insured, and so I called on the agent of the Garden Angel Life Insurance Company, and answered the following questions which was put to me over the top of a pair of gold spectacles, by a slick, little, fat, old fellow, with a round gray head, and as pretty a little belly as any man ever owned.

QUESTIONS: 1. Are you a male or female? If so, state how long you have been so. 2. Are you subject to fits, and if so, do you have more than one at a time. 3. What is your precise fitting weight. 4. Did you ever have any ancestors, and if so, how many? 5. What is your legal opinion of the constitutionality of the 10 commandments?

6. Do you ever have any nitemare? 7. Are you married, and live single, or are you a bachelor? 8. Do you believe in a four state? If you do, state it. 9. What are your private sentiments about a rash of rats to the head - can it be dealt successfully? 10. Have you ever committed suicide, and if so, how does it seem to affect you? 11. Did you ever have the measles, if so, how many? After answering the above questions like a man, on the confirmative, the slick, little, fat, old fellow, with gold spectacles on, said I was insured for life, and probably remain so for a term of years. I thanked him, and smiled one of my most pensive smiles.

There is but one Republican newspaper in Tennessee edited and owned exclusively by colored men, and that is the Maryville Republican. This paper after carefully surveying the field, comes out boldly for Greeley and Brown.

An old soldier at the theatre said he supposed the dancing girls wore their dresses half-naked as a mark of respect of departed modesty.
